

The BMO Capital Markets Real Estate Research Team is pleased to present the Brooklyn Insider's Tour featuring architectural historian Barry Lewis. The tour will begin at 1pm on June 3, to coincide with NAREIT.

SAVE THE DATE - June 3, 2008

- Why Brooklyn? With 2.6 million residents, Brooklyn is New York City's most populous borough and its least understood. Join Brooklyn native and current resident Paul Adornato (and Rich Anderson, a proud Jersey boy) for a unique view of this iconic "city within a city!"
- Featuring Barry Lewis! In addition to touring major real estate projects with senior management, we will venture into magnificent historical enclaves, led by noted architectural historian Barry Lewis (who wowed us last year on BMO's Harlem Tour.) Barry is known for his New York City documentaries on PBS and the History Channel (www.barrylewis.org).
- And of course, bocce! What is Brooklyn without bocce? We will conclude with a game of indoor bocce (with cocktails and hors d'oeuvres) at a neighborhood watering hole. We promise to deliver another one-of-a-kind BMO event - informative and fun! Please join us.

Paul E. Adornato, CFA
212-885-4170 office
917-754-8968 mobile

Richard Anderson
212-885-4180 office
201-665-1755 mobile

BMO  Capital Markets

Ambition, meet execution.